Welcome October!

"October, baptize me with leaves! Swaddle me in corduroy and nurse me with split pea soup. October, tuck tiny candy bars in my pocket and carve my smile into a thousand pumpkins. O autumn! O teakettle! O grace!"

~Rainbow Rowell

Daylight Savings Time Ends
Nov. 5th 2am

Friendly Reminder:
Lake George Cruise- Oct. 9

For those who had signed up for that fabulous Lake George cruise on October 9, please be at the church 7:45am. Return approximately 5:15pm. Any questions, contact Phyllis: 238-5962 or coa@worthington-ma.us

The COA luncheon held on September 11 was a way for those who attended to appreciate and honor those who have served in our armed forces. Thank You!

To add to the festivities, R. H. Conwell students grades 3-6 joined in to welcome the veterans with enthusiasm to prepare for the "Pledge of Allegiance", along with Principal Gretchen/Morse-Dobosz. Dan Nye, the guest speaker from the Northampton Veteran Affairs office was also there to explain available services.

Important Corrected Information

In the September newsletter, there was information on Comcast Offers Affordable Connectivity Program. The phone number given as 413-289-5475, which is the Northampton Comcast store, is incorrect. With talking to a (real person) Comcast representative, the following information was given. To have an application mailed to you call 877-384-2575 to speak to a representative. If you choose to apply online- getinternet.gov Application process.

"Let's Take A Walk"

Saturday, October 21st at 11am
R.H. Conwell School

Join in for a walk along the Sam Hill Loop in Worthington, offering both dirt and paved surfaces as it passes Center Cemetery, Windy Hill Farm and crosses Watts Brook. There are moderate hills and some walking along Rt 112. You will park and walk from R.H. Conwell School. This walk is approximately 2 miles. Light snack will be provided. Questions? Reach out to Joan Griswold: joan@hilltowncdc.org or (413) 296-4536 x102.

Treats With No Tricks?

Monday, October 23rd, 11:00-1:00
COA Office

On October 23rd, the COA office, located at the rear entrance of Corner's Grocery, will be having a Halloween Open House for any senior to stop by anytime between 11:00-1:00 to say hi, enjoy a refreshing cup of cider and a treat. Tricks optional!

How You Can Tell You Are Too Old For Trick Or Treating

- ⇒ You get winded from knocking on the door.
- ⇒ When the door opens you yell, "Trick or...." And can't remember the rest.
- ⇒ By the end of the night, you have a bag full of restraining orders.

October 27- Town Trick Or Treating

Worthington Trick or Treating and Town Hall Party
Friday, October 27th

Seniors Aware of Fire Education

October is "Fire Safety Month" and this year's theme is "Cooking Safety." Cooking fires are the number one cause of home fires. Here are a few safety tips to consider when cooking:

- STAND BY YOUR PAN! Do not leave food, grease or oil cooking on the stove unattended.
- Keep combustible items like pot holders, towels, paper, and plastic away from the burners.
- Do not put anything metal in the microwave.
- If you have a fire in a pan or pot, PUT A LID ON IT. If you have a grease fire, put a lid or a cookie sheet over the pot or pan. Do not move a burning pan, cover it. Do not use water to try to extinguish it; water will not put a grease fire out, but will likely spread the fire.
- In the case of a microwave or oven fire, keep the door closed, turn off the appliance, and call the fire department (911).

Have S.A.F.E cooking experiences!

The Good News about Triad

By Deb Hollingworth

Last week Hampshire County Deputy David Fenton and his partner John Denuco from Triad came to visit us at our Consortium meeting. Amazing what I had forgotten about all the resources Triad provides for seniors. And good to get a refresher, and to be brought up to date on how their programs are flourishing. Triad is a community policing initiative connecting seniors, law enforcement and services providers to increase safety through education and crime prevention. The District Attorney's office, Sheriff's Department and local police and fire departments all provide liaisons to each local SALT Council and attend their monthly meetings. Councils are able to collaborate on programs and initiatives that help seniors by working together and sharing resources. The results are pretty amazing. The list includes: house numbering, community shred events, safe entry program/lock boxes, distribution of the File of Life, sand for seniors, Rx take back events, educational programs on scams, fire safety, in-home safety, prescription abuse, ways to obtain your credit report(s) and their medical equipment loan program.

Some details on this last item: If you have medical equipment that you no longer need, or if you need medical equipment, especially things that your health insurance doesn't cover, you should call Dave Fenton at 413-584-5911. They pick up and deliver. I'll say that again: they pick up and deliver....at no cost! This amazing program alone has been a life saver for thousands of seniors over the past couple decades.

For more details on any of the programs mentioned, you can get in touch with your senior center. Thanks to Triad for all their hard work on behalf of seniors!

Ongoing Tech Support & Computer Classes Starting with Peg Whalen

We're offering Drop-In Center Tech Support at the Chesterfield Community Center on the first and third Wednesdays of each month. In October the Drop-In Center is open Wed., 10/4 and 10/18 from 10am to 3pm. You can just stop in, or, to save a time slot, email coaTechHelp@gmail.com or leave a message at 413-296-5080. Don't hesitate to stop by, especially if you "know nothing". We continue doing individual tech support for all the towns. Please call or email for assistance so we can decide together on the best way and place to get you the help you want.

Peg Whalen is starting a laptop/computer class on the second and fourth Thursdays each month. Sessions are open to every skill level. Join any time, starting Thursday 10/12, continuing 10/26, 11/9, 12/7, 12/21. Email or call to register before coming to ensure enough available laptops. Tech support, class registration or other questions should be made to our new tech support line, 413-296-5080, or email coaTechHelp@gmail.com.

The Book- Part 2. Assets & Liabilities

By Jean O' Neil and Deb Hollingworth

There, Part 1 wasn't so bad, was it? We always mean to collect that information for emergencies, and now we've done it. And we hope you that you never have to use it!

Next we will tackle making an inventory of Assets and Liabilities.

Start with your income. Income is anything the IRS might consider income. This would include a copy of your social security benefit statement, a copy of your pension statement, and any other income generated from annuities or other investments. A drawdown or Required Minimum Distribution from an IRA would count. Perhaps you have rental income, in which case you could include a copy of your tenant's lease, or a note indicating the amount of rent charged. If you are still employed, include a copy of your W-2 or 1099. IMPORTANCE: these are all documents you might need for a bank loan, car loan, or to verify income for public benefits like fuel assistance, SNAP, or subsidized health insurance.

Next we can look at assets. Include a copy of your deed if you own your home or any other property. Make a copy of the title for your vehicle. Include a copy of savings account statements, CDs, life insurance, investment accounts, and a copy of the most recent bank statement. Other assets might include jewelry, antiques, books, art work, and other collections like tools, or equipment, even your prepaid burial contract. IMPORTANCE: If you are surprised at your net worth, you might take another look at your home owner's insurance to see if you have enough to cover replacement value. You might also revisit your will and make sure assets are going where you want them to.

Move on to liabilities, meaning what you owe. Please take a deep breath, this is a long list. Include any outstanding loans, mortgages, car loans, student loans, or equity lines of credit. NOTE: don't forget to include mortgages or loans where you are a co-signer for someone else. Add on the ongoing household overhead bills: utilities like phone and cable, electric, water/sewer, oil or propane, snow removal and mowing. If you have recurring bills like for a credit card or medical payment plan, include the latest statement. Show health insurance like your Medicare supplement, or Rx insurance plan. Other insurance documentation may include home owners or rental insurance, life insurance, and long-term care insurance. Include taxes, both property and potential income tax responsibilities. You might include a copy of your most recent IRS and state return in this section. You may want to list recurring donations. IMPORTANCE: Having a copy or sample of your bills can be a tremendous help for anyone who might have to take care of things for you in the event you are incapacitated.

OK, you've done it! You've made a profit and loss statement of your personal business. If you update this information annually or whenever things change, you will always be able to put your hands on what you need, e.g., the title to your car, last quarter's water/sewer bill, or last year's home owner's insurance.

There can be a pay off for becoming more organized! A case in point... when Deb received her home owner's insurance bill this year, she compared it with last year. This resulted in a call to her agent and subsequent reduction of several hundred dollars! And then there was the accountant who billed her twice for doing her income tax return.....and so it goes. And does anyone still do a budget? Does anyone still think that is a useful document? You need all the above information to do a budget.

But wait, what do I do with these things?

Good question. Everyone thinks differently, and approaches problems from a different background. Deb and Jean have tackled their versions of The Book in two different ways.

Jean works with file folders (labeled, dontcha know) and finds them easy to use and store. The downsides? One really needs to do the labels in a clear and consistent manner for this to work. In an emergency, like a fire, it would not be possible to gather all the folders that are needed. She also uses computer files for many papers and her instructions to her durable power of attorney and executor describe where to find the relevant files. She has also started taking a photo of documents and filing them.

Deb has a 3-ring binder, a big one, with plastic sheets that hold the papers. She adds sheets as she adds information. The Goshen COA has started a similar project for Goshen seniors with their Critical Information Binders. This is a practical way to gather up important documents, and in a portable format.

Other options include putting papers in labeled magazine boxes or plastic storage boxes that you can buy at an office supply store. In the end, use whatever works for you.

What you don't want to do is store all this information in a safety deposit box, UNLESS you have another person who is authorized to open the box in your absence. Otherwise, the bank will have to drill the lock out and will charge you. There will also be a delay in getting the documents out.

In the next chapter we'll tackle "Personal Documents", in case you want to get a jump on finding your Medicare card and other insurance documents, your Health Care Proxy, birth certificate, passport, etc. Wouldn't it be nice to have those handy in one place?
