Homemade Remedies For Your Vegetable Garden!

- Leftover water: After washing, steaming, or boiling vegetables, set the water aside and use it to water your plants- it will be full of vitamins and nutrients.
- Egg shells: Rich in calcium, egg shells can act as a great fertilizer. Larger shell pieces can also help to deter slugs.
- Baking soda: Baking soda is a great remedy for mold and mildew- common problems for plants such as pumpkins, potatoes, cucumbers and tomatoes. Mix the baking soda with oil (to help stick) and spray affected areas.

Seniors Aware of Fire Education

Hoping that May will warm things up enough for barbecuing, here are some things to consider for barbecue safety:

Senior
SAFE

- ~NEVER grill indoors.
- ~ Keep grills at least 10 feet away from the side of any building.
- ~ Keep children away from a burning grill.
- ~ NEVER leave a burning grill unattended.
- ~ Grills may be used on first floor decks, balconies or patios if there is an outdoor stairway to the ground or if it is on the ground level.
- ~ Grills are prohibited to be used on any porch, balcony or deck that has a roof or overhang.

Gas Grill Safety

- ~ Propane is heavier than air and will sink to the lowest level. A leaky grill is a hazard to anyone below.
- ~ Keep propane 10 feet away from any building openings (doors, windows, dryer vents).
- ~ Keep propane 20 feet away from air intake vents and any ignition sources.

Before lighting a gas grill:

- ~ Make sure all connections are secure and tight, and open the lid.
- ~If the flame goes out, turn off the gas and wait 10 minutes for the gas to dissipate before relighting the grill.
- ~Make sure the grease trap is clean.

Charcoal Grill Safety

- ~ Use only charcoal lighter fluid, not gasoline.
- ~ After the coals are lit, be patient and NEVER add more lighter fluid to the fire. Flames can travel up the light fluid stream and cause very serious burns.
- ~ Dispose of the ashes in a covered metal container.

Have a S.A.F.E and delicious barbecuing season!

Social Security Safety, part 2

Oh the hubris. I WILL make this work, I said last month. Well, yes and no.

I did finally find the location online in my account where I could block access, it is called "Deactivate Access". I found it under My Profile, then Security. But the directions / warning scared me off. This is not a simple block like we do for our credit bureau files. To get my account unblocked, I will have to verify my account again by calling the Social Security office. Not my favorite thing to do...

I would have to unblock my account to make any future changes to direct deposit (I change my bank, for example), or need to report a change of address. But as more news has surfaced about private individuals accessing our data, I worry about the data getting compromised by them misusing it or just messing up the software so it doesn't work.

If you do decide to move forward with the block, you can call the Social Security Administration and request the block. You can apply a Self Lock on E-Verify.

In the meantime, remember the old safety warnings which I will repeat, then stop nagging. Don't carry your card with you. Don't share your number over the phone, EVER, or in public. Don't give out your number unless it really is necessary. Keep sharp watch on your bank statement to find any discrepancies and report them right away and to make sure your monthly SS payments come in and are correct. Do the credit report freeze if you haven't already done so.

Again, I now do not recommend this. Too risky for my blood. My parents didn't raise a gambler!

As always, stay safe.

Good News for May 2025

By Deb Hollingworth

Besides it is finally beginning to feel like Spring, the Good News this month is more about the Medicare Savings Program.

Those of you who submitted a MSP application last year are beginning to get a notice from MassHealth asking you to "recertify". This happens every year for anyone enrolled in MassHealth and although the Medicare Savings Program is technically a Federal benefit, not a MassHealth benefit, it is administered by MassHealth, which is why you are getting the recertify letter.

The good news is that the recertification application is the same as your original application. Only two pages. And does not require verification of identity or income. You once again, self declare your income, give your Medicare number and mail back to the address on the application.

Some of you may have received a MassHealth card during the year? Perhaps you are confused since you can't remember applying for MassHealth. The card came automatically because your income was low enough to qualify you for the highest level of Medicare Savings Program subsidy which is called QMB. Those folks with income less than $2,478/ month single, or $3,349/ month married get an additional benefit because MSP will pay any co-pays or deductibles that Medicare doesn't cover.

If you received a MassHealth ID card in the mail, be sure to show it to your medical providers so it will be added to your record and you will not be charged any co-pays or deductibles.

QMB is not MassHealth, and is not subject to Estate Recovery. It's a great benefit that acts like a Medex supplement.

Which brings me to the next question. If you have QMB through the Medicare Savings Program, do you need to keep your Medex? The short answer is No. QMB does the same thing as your Medex. The longer answer is if you give up your Medex, you won't be allowed to get it back at some later date, as long as you have QMB. So for folks who spend time out of state, like winters in Florida, you might not want to give up your Medex. QMB works in Massachusetts, but out of State medical providers may not be willing to bill it.

If you have any questions, or a problem with your medical provider not billing QMB for deductibles or co-pays, you can speak with Caroline Solan, your SHINE counselor at Highland Valley, 413-586-2000, or call your senior center for more information.

Let's Keep Talking About Death-
Part 2

May 20, May 27 and June 3rd
4:00-5:30pm

John James Memorial Hall
42 Main St. Goshen

We are continuing our series of conversations based on Let's Talk About Death Over Dinner by Michael Hebb. Sessions will be led by End of Life Doula Stacey Mackowiak and take place over three sessions-May 20, May 27, and June 3 from 4:00-5:30pm.

Sessions will involve guided practices, journaling, and small group discussions on topics including vigil planning, life review, writing an epitaph, legacy planning, being present with the dying, and how to say goodbye.

All are welcome, even if this is your first session.

Please email or call Kerry Normandin at 268-9354 by May 12 if you would like to attend.

The COAs in collaboration with the HRHS Drama Company!

Hampshire Regional High School Auditorium
Thursday May 15th at 3pm
(doors open at 2:30pm)

The Picture Of Dorian Gray

Let's go see a show! Together!

The High School Drama Company is teaming up with the local Councils on Aging to bring a special theatrical experience to the community. In a unique collaboration, students will perform a production for you (those who are 60+), providing you with the opportunity to enjoy a show at little to no cost. This partnership offers the students a chance to showcase their work in a relaxed and supportive environment, serving as a dress rehearsal before the official debut. For the seniors, it's a wonderful opportunity to connect with the younger generation and enjoy an afternoon of live theater in an accessible and welcoming setting. It's a win-win—students gain invaluable performance experience, while the community is treated to a memorable cultural experience.

Entry is free to all COA Seniors. There will be a donation bucket at the entrance if people wish to make a cash donation to help with the Drama Company's expenses. For more info, please contact your COA.
